On 21 July the Skills Funding Agency announced that ESOL courses for students receiving Job Seeker's Allowance will be cut with immediate effect.

This latest cut is on top of a 24% reduction to funding for Further Education this year, which has meant extensive losses to ESOL provision nationally. In addition, it has been announced that adult courses will be cut by a further 3.9%.

David Cameron said on 20 July 2015: 'At the moment we have parts of the country where opportunities remain limited... where language remains a real barrier, where too many women from minority communities remain trapped outside the workforce, and where educational attainment is low.'

So why are the government now cutting ESOL classes? They attack migrant groups for 'self-segregation' and then take away their opportunities to learn English. Fund ESOL! Stop the Hypocrisy! ESOL students want to learn!
